Self-propelled Treadmill with Resistance

Walk, jog or sprint instantly with no intervention other than shifting your body forward to accelerate or backwards to slow down or stop, no need to touch any buttons in the console. Adding some resistance, depending on the user body weight, is vital to walk comfortably. The curve surface encourages the user to run using the balls of the feet improving posture, reducing joint impact, improving performance and burning up to 30% more calories compared to electric treadmills. 100% muscle activation, your body is the motor. The rubber slats give the user incredible shock absorption with low foot impact.
